PROCEEDINGS OF THE BOARD OF MISSIONS.

ANNUAL MEETING—ABSTRACT.

The Board met at Trinity Church, Boston, on the afternoon of Wednesday, June 20th, and shortly adjourned to hear the annual sermon, which was delivered in the evening, by the Rev. Dr. Johns, of Baltimore, at St. Paul's Church.

There were present during the meetings of the Board, the Rt. Rev. Bishops Griswold, B. T. Onderdonk and Doane; the Rev. Drs. Eastburn, Hawks, Jarvis, Johns, Milnor, Stone and Tyng; the Rev. Messrs. Baury, Carder, Dorr, Edson, Forbes, Jones, Richmond, Vaughan and the Secretary; and Messrs. Greenleaf, Huntington, Lovell, Morgan, Newton, Nicklin, Stuyvesant, Tuckerman, Wagner, Wharton, Winston and Woolley.

The Secretary read the following communication from the Rt. Rev. Dr. Kemper, Missionary Bishop for Missouri and Indiana, being the report* of his labors, required by the second canon of 1835.

*Steamboat Avalance, Mississippi River,
June 7, 1838.*

To the Board of Missions of the Prot. Epis. Church:

BELOVED BRETHREN:

The Missionary ground to which I was called by the General Convention included two states. At the time of my consecration, 25th September, 1835, Missouri contained an Episcopal Church, but not one clergyman; while in Indiana there was a youthful Missionary, but not a stone, brick or log had been laid towards the erection of a place of public worship for our denomination. And it is said that the venerable Bishop Chase, whose long residence had made him intimately acquainted with the

* In his correspondence with the Domestic Committee, the Missionary Bishop has mentioned the causes which providentially hindered his reporting to the Board at their former meetings. J. D. C., Sec., &c.

West, considered Indiana lost to the Church in consequence of our long neglect.

The Mission is by no means in such a condition as I could wish, and as I thought a year ago it would be at this time. Still, there is cause for encouragement and thankfulness. A few brethren in the ministry have nobly shared with me the toils and dangers incident to pioneers. We have done what we could. And, through the grace of our ascended Lord, we believe we shall be enabled to establish our beloved Zion in these states upon the broadest and surest foundation. The reports of my self-denying fellow-laborers will speak for them, and convey to you later intelligence of their prospects than I could impart. They have manfully persevered in the midst of discouragements of no ordinary nature. Whatever may have been our errors of judgment, and our other infirmities, I claim, for them and for myself, singleness of heart, purity of purpose, and devotion to the cause of Christ Jesus and him crucified.

Send us heralds of the cross—men who know their duty and delight in doing it—and I assure you the Church will be soon known and loved throughout the immense valley of the Mississippi. Every effort in my power has been used by me to increase their number. During the summer of 1836 I visited Washington College and the Theological School of Virginia, and had frequent intercourse, during that season and the spring of the following year, with the students of the General Seminary. I have held correspondence with many clergymen and candidates; and in so doing have been aided and encouraged by my brethren in the Episcopate. And, although the result of these almost unremitting exertions has been very small, and is scarcely yet perceptible, I am confident I have not labored in vain. To not a few of my appeals I have received answers which demand the deepest consideration. And I now say to my respected brethren of the Board: I have ascertained of late that Missionaries can be obtained—men too, I think, of the right stamp—men who have had experience and have counted the cost of the work—but who have families to support. Enable me, brethren, to say to them, “Come, and neither you nor yours shall suffer from want for three or four years”—and our ranks will soon increase. I ask but for them and for myself the necessities of life. Why cannot some of the Domestic Missionaries be placed, especially those who are near the frontiers, on the same footing with Foreign Missionaries?

From the commencement of my Mission, to June, 1836, my journeys were as follows: Accompanied by my inestimable friend and true yoke-fellow, the Rev. S. R. Johnson, I started from Philadelphia on the 3d of November, and visited Madison, Laurenceburg, New-Albany, Jeffersonville and Evansville on the Ohio—ascended the banks of the Wabash as far as Terre Haute—returned to Vincennes—and went from thence through Illinois to St. Louis, where the Rev. Peter R. Minard, my assistant in Christ Church, had arrived a few weeks before me.

The day after my arrival I received urgent letters to hasten to the diocese of Illinois, the charge of which had been committed to me by Bishop Chase during his absence in England. This request was speedily complied with—and I was enabled before summer, by improving opportunities as they offered, to officiate at Jacksonville, Springfield, Beardstown, Rushville, Alton, Ridge Prairie, Collinsville, Marine and Quincy.

Early in the spring I ascended the Mississippi with captain Strother, then commanding the Olive Branch, and to whom I am indebted for much kindness and hospitality. I officiated at Palmyra and Hannibal, and ascertained that Episcopalians are to be found in several villages near the river, between St. Louis and Marion county.

I afterwards went up the Missouri and preached at Boonville, Fayette, Columbia and St. Charles.

The noble field which the whole West presents for Missionary labor—the deplorable condition of the members of our own household of faith, who are scattered in every direction with scarcely a pastor to feed them—the great exertions of other denominations in the sacred cause of education, and the astonishing success which the Presbyterians, Methodists, Baptists and Roman Catholics have had in founding and endowing colleges—and the great difficulty we must necessarily encounter for years in obtaining clergymen from the East, when the Church, even in those sections where she is longest known, is not yet fully supplied—these considerations, with others, convinced me that we should have at least one seminary of learning of our own in every state, and that, in various parts of our country, energetic measures should be adopted to train up pious natives of the soil for the Gospel ministry. I hastened to New-York and made known my views. After many discouragements, and in fact when making my last efforts to excite an interest in a cause so dear to my heart, and so important, as it appeared to me, to the best interests of mankind—the attention of one individual was arrested—and Mr. John P. Stagg offered to assist me in obtaining “$20,000 if that sum would be sufficient for a beginning.” From this moment my prospects brightened. A few preparatory meetings were held, which were attended by my excellent brethren, the Rev. Drs. Hawks and Eastburn, and a few zealous laymen—and in 20 days from the commencement of our attempt, the sum contemplated was secured. May God reward our benefactors for good! The effort was neither begun, carried on, nor concluded, without fervent prayer; while the lively interest exhibited by those who co-operated with me, and the kindness and generosity expressed by almost all those upon whom we called, made it indeed a work and labor of love.

I returned to St. Louis in the autumn of 1836, and remained there until a Board of Trustees had been organized. We drafted a charter and forwarded it to the Legislature, which in progress of time was duly approved of, and confers upon the institution the full powers of a university. It was our request that it should be called the Missouri College. This was the only part objected to in our application. As the passage of the act depended upon the immediate substitution of another name, and very few if any persons interested in our design were in the city of Jefferson, there was no time for consultation. The name of the first trustee was therefore used, which happened to be mine. Of this I knew nothing until some months after, and when the Legislature had adjourned.

Early in December I went by water to Indiana, and was detained there much longer than I had expected, in consequence of the freezing of the Ohio. I visited Evansville, New-Albany, Jeffersonville, Madison, Indianapolis, Crawfordsville and Richmond, and returned from the interior of that state through a part of Ohio, and by the Miami Canal. I was now engaged for some time with Bishop Otey in fruitless efforts to restore peace to the diocese of Kentucky. We met for that purpose on the call of Bishop McIlvaine, and went together to Lexington.

Louisville in Kentucky is so much a starting point for many parts of Indiana, that I have frequently been there, and now desire to express my grateful acknowledgments for the uniform kindness and hospitality which I have received from several most worthy members of our Church who reside in that city.

I again returned to my interesting and important parish, not to resume the charge of it, for that I have necessarily devolved upon my assistant, who is always indefatigable in his exertions for the spiritual welfare of his fellow beings; but to cheer him in his many labors, to afford him for a week or two the relief his health demands, and to answer as many of the letters which had accumulated in my study as time permitted. I now found that the trustees had fixed upon a beautiful spot, five miles from St. Louis, in a south-westerly direction, containing one hundred and thirty-five arpents, on which to locate our college. Determined to proceed cautiously, and to keep clear from debt, we believed the most judicious way was, to open, in the first place, a Christian Institute, upon the admirable plan of that at Flushing, N. Y.; and to postpone to a future day the full organization of a college, until the school had arrested attention, and done good, and our friends were sufficiently interested in its success to afford us further aid. I, therefore, started for New-York, hoping, by an early application, to secure the services of one or two of the young men, who would take orders in the summer, to conduct our preparatory school. I improved the opportunity, as I had done even before my appointment as a Missionary Bishop, and particularly since that appointment, and as I hope often to do again, of addressing the students at the General Seminary upon the subject of Missions, and now urged upon them the wants and the claims of the West. I returned to St. Louis after a short absence, cheered by the conviction that my fellow laborers would soon be joined by some zealous and well-prepared ministers of the New Testament, and that we should be authorized to announce the commencement of our academic labors in October. I was thoroughly disappointed; but I was not cast down—no—though three of the brethren left us during 1837, and not a theological graduate of that year came to our help. However I may lament these events, I blame no one. Circumstances often occur, which not only justify, but require a removal, or a change of intention. I trust and believe that all those with whom I have had intercourse concerning the West, are deeply interested in its spiritual growth, and will most readily assist us, when it is in their power.

During my short stay in St. Louis in the month of May, 1837, I had the gratification of laying the corner stone of a new church. The edifice in which we had worshipped, being too small for our growing congregation, and being situated near the seat of business, was sold for a sum of money which authorized the measure.

Having called a convocation of the clergy of Indiana, I set out to meet them, taking the road by Vincennes, through Terre Haute to Crawfordsville. Here the labors of the Rev. Mr. Hoyt had been blest; and I had the pleasure, during our short but interesting session, of laying the corner stone of the first Episcopal church in Indiana. The whole of the summer was devoted to this important state. The Rev. Mr. Britton, now the successful Missionary at Indianapolis, accompanied me from Crawfordsville through Terre Haute to Vincennes, Washington, Evansville and Troy. The Rev. S. R. Johnson—whom to know is to love, and who, with resources that would enable him to choose his own place of residence, has established himself in a new and thriving place which was reputed to be sickly—again volunteered his services, which were most gladly accepted. We met at Logansport, a station that the Rev. C. J. Todd, after a very encouraging beginning, had been compelled to leave, and which still remains vacant. We went thence to La Porte, Michigan City, South-Bend, Mishawaka, Lima, Fort Wayne, Delphi and America. We were again at Logansport—and I returned with him to La Fayette—where, up to this time, his family has enjoyed the most uninterrupted health. To Madison, Indianapolis, Laurenceburg, Richmond, &c., I went alone; and, had it not been for a call to another diocese, I should have been enabled to visit before winter, every important village and neighborhood in the state.

At the request of the Bishop and the Convention, about a month was devoted, in company with Bishops M'Ilvaine and M'Coskry, to the concerns of the diocese of Kentucky.

I hastened then to Missouri, and made a rapid but very interesting tour in a western direction—passed the boundaries of the state—went through the territories of the Shawnees and the Delawares; and visited Fort Leavenworth and the Kickapoos. From Baptist and Methodist Missionaries I received no little kindness and much interesting information concerning the Indians. They directed my attention to the Senecas, &c., whose interesting case has lately been brought before the Church by the Domestic Committee, and whom I shall delight to visit in the fall. I officiated during this tour at St. Charles, Fayette, Lexington, Independence, the Methodist Mission among the Shawnees, Fort Leavenworth, Richmond and Boonville. I have not time now even to refer to my diary; but I recollect the administration of Baptism and the Lord's Supper at the Fort and at Boonville; and at Fayette, where I held a convocation of the clergy of Missouri, four persons were confirmed, and the holy Eucharist was celebrated. I must not forget to mention that the Rev. Mr. Peake, who has now been for more than a year the watchman on our most western tower, and who deserves my highest commendation for his faithfulness and perseverance, was my companion during the greater part of this journey. The observation of an officer whose child I had just consecrated to the worship and love of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, ought to be recorded as affording an intimation of the extensive field which the valley of the Mississippi presents for future exertion. "This child," said he, "has been baptized at a spot which is 1600 miles from the head of navigation on the Missouri river, and 1600 miles from where it mingles with the ocean."

If I doubted for a while whether friendship towards a much beloved brother* in the Episcopate would sanction an absence of some months from my peculiar Mission, I was soon convinced that duty called, and the Church would joyfully approve of the measure, when that brother besought me from a sick bed to go onward and accomplish—what he had been so earnestly solicited to do, and had long contemplated—an extensive visitation of the South-West. From that delightful region I have just returned. Brethren, it is ripe to the harvest—peculiarly ripe for the reapers of our Church. And if we are true to ourselves, and the sacred cause for which the Saviour shed his precious blood, you will send to it, without delay, those messengers of salvation, who count not their lives dear unto themselves, for the sake of their adorable Master. There are there already some most admirable men—but how few—and how widely scattered! Missions, even

* The Rt. Rev. Dr. Otey, Bishop of Tennessee, who has temporary provisional charge of Mississippi, and some other parts of the South-West. Bishop Kemper's report of his southern visitation is made to Bishop Otey, for whom he acted. Should a copy of it, or a communication from Bishop Otey in relation to it, be made to the Domestic Committee, it will be immediately laid before the Church. J. D. C., Sec., &c.

in their most extensive sense, have long been dear to me; nor would I now, notwithstanding the unnumbered wants and urgent claims of our own country—notwithstanding my intense desire that there should be removed from our Church the burning shame with which she is covered for her past remissness—I would not even now give up our Foreign Missions, or lessen the contributions towards them. But to those, especially, who reside in the dioceses of Connecticut, Virginia and North Carolina, who esteem it a privilege to assist by their means in converting the heathen, I declare it to be my solemn conviction: It is your duty, upon every principle of humanity, affection or the Bible, it is your duty to contribute one hundred fold, in proportion, for your brethren in the Lord—for those who have been united with you as fellow-worshippers, and who are now deprived of the means and consolations of the Gospel of grace. Let the Church answer the demands of the South-West for Missionaries during the next five years, and the treasury of the Lord will be richly supplied from that quarter for the express purpose of preaching the Gospel to Foreign nations.

During the last eighteen days I have been busily employed in interesting and important duties at St. Louis; and now I am on my way to meet the clergy of Indiana, on the 9th inst., at Evansville. As soon as the calls of that state will permit, I shall proceed to Wisconsin, and trust I shall have time to visit the greater part thereof before the assembling of the General Convention. I am happy to say that, though there exists a difference of opinion relative to this Territory, between Bishop M'Coskry and myself, it has never caused an unkind feeling or expression. Invited, I believe, before his consecration, by all the clergy and congregations then and at present belonging to Wisconsin, to extend my jurisdiction over them, I have delayed doing so until this summer; and now I shall go there with the approbation, and at the request of the Bishop of Michigan.

The Church sent me to a wide field, and I have been called, in the providence of God, to visit a much more extensive one. Were I the representative of the dioceses of Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, and of the Episcopalians in Florida, Louisiana, and Arkansas—were I authorized to speak in behalf of the beautiful and interesting diocese of Illinois—including of course my own Mission, and adding, if permitted, and as I earnestly desire, the Indian Territory and Texas—I would say, the beloved members of our own Church, who are scattered about in the region now alluded to, require at this time at least one hundred Missionaries to supply their spiritual wants. But why should we limit our efforts in this country to our own household? Who besides us have done it? Do the Methodists, for example, seek only their own? I have found their preachers everywhere—in the remotest, the most obscure corners—on the confines of our country, among the aborigines. They go to seek those who are lost—to preach the gospel to the poor, the ignorant, and the debased—and they are constantly gathering congregations from every class of society. There is yet much land unpossessed. Shall we try to occupy a part of it in the name of the Lord? Then send us hundreds of the ambassadors of the Most High.

Thus far I have done little more than survey the ground. I know it, as yet, but imperfectly; but I know enough to declare it is worthy of, and will repay, the highest cultivation you can bestow upon it. This is a very hasty and imperfect report. The fact is, I have been too busy to write. Had I remained as I contemplated, three months in St. Louis last winter, to recruit and prepare for future visitations, I should have found time to make out a journal of my proceedings, with the statistics of my Mission. The statistics shall be ready for the General Convention, and I trust the journal likewise. There are circumstances, particularly in relation to my own jurisdiction, which I have not stated, and which afford, I think, ground for great encouragement; but I will not mention them now, for I may be disappointed, as I already have been in many cases. Last summer I was greatly discouraged by the apprehension that the number of the Missionaries would be limited, and the salaries of the few now in the field be diminished. I trust this will not be the case. I look to you to support me—to support me thoroughly. I have given myself to the work without reserve, and I am confident, the Lord being our Helper, of final success; but untiring and generous efforts will yet be necessary for years, on the part of the Church.

With great respect and affection,

Most truly yours,

JACKSON KEMPER,

Missionary Bishop of the Prot. Epis. Church, for the States of Missouri and Indiana.

The Secretary read a letter from the Rt. Rev. Bishop Chase, enclosing a draft for one thousand dollars, being the amount received by him, under a resolution of the Board, of June 24th, 1836, which, on motion of the Rt. Rev. Bishop Doane, was referred to a committee of three.

The Rev. Mr. Carder, the Secretary and General Agent of the Domestic Committee, having laid before the Board an extract of a letter from the Rt. Rev. Bishop Kemper, apprizing the Board of his returning to the Domestic treasury the amount received by him for travelling expenses,

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Jarvis, it was

Resolved, That the said communication be referred to a committee of three, who reported:

That, having examined the facts of the case, they find,

1. That the Bishop has drawn the sum of one hundred dollars under this resolution; but instead of applying it to his own expenses, has, with generous devotion to the cause of Missions, given it to one of the Missionaries towards his church, and has since refunded to the Board the same amount.

2. That he has also determined not to draw for five hundred dollars, the balance of the sum heretofore named by him as the amount for which he would draw, under the resolution of 1836, towards paying his travelling expenses for three years, up to the time of the approaching General Convention.

Your committee have reason to believe that the [travelling] expenses of the Bishop since his consecration have in reality been more than double the amount of the sums here named; and that if it were not for peculiar circumstances, with which the Board have no concern, the Bishop's salary would not be sufficient for the maintenance of his family. They cannot, therefore, think it proper to permit that any appropriation, hitherto made, should be refunded; and while they perceive, with great sensibility, the evidence of self-denying devotion to the cause of Christ afforded by this communication, they recommend unanimously,

That the Secretary and General Agent of the Domestic Committee be instructed to write to the Bishop, declining most respectfully and affectionately on the part of the Board, to receive any portion of the appropriation already made.

All which is respectfully submitted,

SAMUEL FARMAR JARVIS.
FRANCIS L. HAWKS.
TOBIAS WAGNER.

On motion of the Rt. Rev. Bishop Doane, it was Resolved, That the Board approve of the foregoing report, and that a copy thereof be transmitted to the Rt. Rev. Bishop Kemper.

The committee to whom were referred the annual accounts of the Treasurers of the Domestic and Foreign Committees, reported:

That the said accounts have been regularly audited, and that the explanations, given, have been entirely satisfactory. They believe the accounts to be correct.

JOSEPH LOVELL.
G. M. WHARTON.
J. JOHNS.

Boston, June 21, 1838.

On motion of Mr. Stuyvesant, it was Resolved, That the thanks of this Board be presented to the Treasurers of the Domestic and Foreign Committees for their gratuitous services during the past year.

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Hawks, it was Resolved, That it be referred to the Domestic and Foreign Committees, to prepare the Triennial Report required by Article vi. of the Constitution, to be submitted to this Board for approval, at its meeting on the second day of the meeting of the General Convention in September next.

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Milnor, it was Resolved, That the thanks of this Board be presented to the Rev. Dr. Johns for the sermon delivered before the Board last evening, and that he be requested to furnish a copy of the same for publication.

The committee to whom was referred the 'Third Annual Report of the Committee for Foreign Missions, reported :

That having examined the same, they are of opinion that the said Committee have faithfully, judiciously and zealously discharged the duties of their responsible trust; and have great cause for thankfulness, that their labors have been so much blessed.

Your committee have learned from the Report, with great gratitude to God, that the apprehensions, entertained a year since, of a reduction of revenue, were without foundation. The extraordinary exertions of the dioceses to aid the cause of Missions, in a time of apprehended difficulty, particularly those of the Church in South Carolina, weak in numbers, but strong in charity, are worthy of all praise.

Your committee hope that the success of the past year will not induce the parishes to relax their efforts, but that the continued difficulty under which the country suffers, may induce them to continue, with renewed zeal, their noble efforts in the Missionary cause.

The committee therefore recommend to the Board the following resolutions :

Resolved, That the Board approve of the proceedings of the Committee for Foreign Missions, as detailed in their Third Annual Report, and earnestly recommend this Department of Missionary operations to the continued patronage, liberality and prayers of the Church.

Resolved, that the said Report be referred to the Foreign Committee, to be published with the proceedings of the Board.

JOSEPH LOVELL.

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Hawks,

The resolutions connected with the above report were adopted.

The Rev. Dr. Jarvis submitted the following resolution, which, on motion of Mr. Newton,

Was ordered to be laid on the table until the next meeting of the Board :

Resolved, That a Committee of — members be appointed to consider whether any, and if any what, regulations are expedient, with regard to Missionary operations in countries already under Foreign Episcopal jurisdiction, and to report thereon at the next meeting of this Board.

The committee to whom was referred the communication of the Rt. Rev. Dr. Kemper, Missionary Bishop, dated 7th June, 1838, reported :

That they have endeavored to give to that interesting and important document, the respectful consideration which it so justly demands. The cordial thanks of the Board of Missions are due to the Missionary Bishop for the long and arduous journey which he has voluntarily made to the south-western region of our country. The beneficial influence of this visitation has already been, it is believed, extensively experienced, and doubtless will be felt in the future increase of religion, under the divine blessing, in that destitute region which calls so loudly and solemnly for the prayers, the means and the exertions of Churchmen.

There are many weighty matters suggested by Bishop Kemper's communication—matters however, which come more appropriately under the consideration of the Committee for Domestic Missions, appointed by this Board; and, although these have been, by that Committee, in their report for this year, presented in their true light, still your Committee would take occasion to urge upon the Board the importance of giving increased prominence to the West and South-West, as objects demanding from the Church, especial efforts. Your committee believe that in the progress of our Church, her pioneers must be from the highest order of the ministry; and that complete success will never crown her efforts until she returns to this primitive and apostolic practice. The appointment of a Missionary Bishop for the south-western states and territories, is a measure which the Church, by her General Convention has already sanctioned. This measure, in the opinion of your Committee, ought not to be longer delayed; and, should one be appointed, they cannot doubt that the immediate effect of his labors, under the blessing of Almighty God, would be not only to extend more rapidly to those neglected regions, a knowledge of the Saviour and his Church; but also more than repay into the treasury of the Board the increased expense thereby incurred.

They therefore recommend the adoption of the following resolutions :

Resolved, That the cordial thanks of this Board be given, through the Secretary, to the Rt. Rev. Dr. Kemper, for his indefatigable and successful labors, not only in the states under his immediate ecclesiastical jurisdiction, but also, in his recent visitation to the south-western states and territories.

Resolved, That the House of Bishops be respectfully requested, at the next General Convention, to nominate, and the house of clerical and lay deputies, to elect a Missionary Bishop for the south-western states and territories, not organized as dioceses, and, at present, destitute of Episcopal supervision.

WILLIAM RICHMOND.

S. H. HUNTINGTON.

JOSEPH LOVELL.

On motion of the Rev. Mr. Carder,

The resolutions contained in the above report were adopted.

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Johns,

Resolved, That a special committee be appointed, to collect and report such information as they may deem calculated to promote the success of our Missionary operations in Foreign countries under Episcopal jurisdiction.

The Rt. Rev. Bishops Brownell and Doane, and the Rev. Drs. Jarvis, Hawks and Johns were appointed the committee.

The committee to whom was referred the Report of the Committee for Domestic Missions, reported :

That they have examined the same, and, highly approving of it, would recommend its publication by the Board of Missions. The committee desire to express their satisfaction with the very full and interesting statistical documents which accompany the Report.

The committee take occasion to express peculiar satisfaction with the course pursued, since the last meeting of the Board, in relation to Missions among the Indian tribes. They would earnestly recommend increased attention to the spiritual welfare of these interesting people, and would express the conviction, that the more simple and domestic the means employed shall be—the more completely the Missionaries shall identify themselves with the people whom they seek to instruct and save—the greater will be the success which, under God, will wait upon their ministrations.

G. W. DOANE.

P. G. STUYVESANT.

G. M. WHARTON.

On motion of the Rev. Mr. Carder, it was Resolved, That the Report of the Domestic Committee be referred to that body for publication, with the proceedings of this Board.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Doane, as chairman of the committee to whom was referred the communication of the Rt. Rev. Bishop Chase, presented a report : whereupon,

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Jarvis, it was

Resolved, That the communication of the Rt. Rev. Bishop

Chase, and the report thereon, be referred to the next meeting of this Board.

On motion of the Rev. Mr. Carder, it was Resolved, That at the next meeting of this Board, a public Missionary meeting be held on the evening of the second day of the session, and that the Domestic Committee be requested to make arrangements for the same.

On motion of Mr. Nicklin, it was Resolved, That on all public occasions of the meetings of this Board, there be collections in aid of its funds.

The Board then united in singing the 103d hymn, and in prayer offered, at the request of the President, by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Onderdonk, and adjourned to meet in St. Andrew's Church, Philadelphia, on the second day of the session of the General Convention in September next.

ABSTRACT OF THE REPORT OF THE DOMESTIC COMMITTEE TO THE BOARD OF MISSIONS.

The Committee for Domestic Missions, in offering their Third Annual Report to the Board of Missions of the Protestant Episcopal Church, find cause for renewed expressions of devout thankfulness to Almighty God for the mercies with which he has distinguished them, and for the blessings with which he has crowned the labors of the year. The Committee are not called upon to record any inroad by death among their own number, or among the Missionaries in their employment. A season of much pecuniary distress throughout the land, has brought with it no serious embarrassment in their financial arrangements; and the apprehensions, which, for a large portion of the year, seemed to cripple the operations of the Committee, and to fill the minds of some with dismay, are giving place to a more entire reliance on the Spirit of God, who graciously opens the hearts, and excites the prayers of his people, in carrying forward the work.

In view of the extensive field before them, and of the wants to which they are called to minister, the Committee have indeed had to mourn over their inability to go forward and much enlarge their operations; but they are thankful that these have not been directly curtailed. No Missionary has been recalled. No proper draft for salary has been dishonored.

FUNDS.

At the last meeting of the Board the Committee reported $7,658 89 in their treasury, towards meeting the obligations of the 1st of July then ensuing. Contributions have since been made to the funds for Domestic Missions as follows, to wit:

ACTS OF THE COMMITTEE.

After the adjournment of the Board at their last annual meeting in Baltimore, the Committee again resumed the discharge of their duties.

One of their first acts was, (in conformity with the sentiments of the Board,) to sanction the plan of the Secretary and General Agent, to devote his chief time to the duties of the Missionary rooms, and to arrange his labors, out of the city, so as least to interrupt the prompt and efficient discharge of the superior duties in immediate connection with the Committee. They, therefore, abolished the office of Local Secretary, which had become vacant by the election of the incumbent to that of Secretary and General Agent, and provided office assistance by the employment of a suitable clerk.

The Committee also advised an extensive correspondence relative to the condition and wants of the Department, which, it is believed, had a good effect in relieving them from apprehended embarrassment. It is not strange that the condition of the country, and the circumstances in which the Committee were then placed, should have tended to create forebodings of an unpleasant kind. The working of the new organization had hitherto been in the palmy day of prosperity. The impulse of the first moving force would necessarily subside. Now the time had come which was to try the faith of the Church, and test the genuineness of that spirit which had thus far borne her along.

So situated, the Committee deemed it the part of wisdom to learn from the Church herself, whether the few Domestic Missions she had undertaken should be sustained. All applications for Missionary appointments were suffered to lie on their table. An appeal by a circular letter was sent forth to the Church. The efforts of the Secretary, by correspondence and personal visits, were not spared. By the kind Providence of God, the response of the Church, if not sufficient to remove all apprehension, encouraged the Committee to proceed. The appointments of the Missionaries already in the field, were renewed, though in many cases with diminished salaries. A few additional Missionaries were also immediately appointed.

The number under appointment at the adjournment of the Board, was fifty four. Since that period, twenty-seven have been employed, and the resignations of twenty-three have been accepted, making the number now fifty-eight. The number of places reported to the Board as Missionary stations was eighty-eight. There have been added during the year, twenty-eight; and seventeen have been discontinued; making the present number ninety-nine. The Committee could have added many other places to the list, equally inviting, equally needing their fostering care; but the prospect of being unable to supply them with the ministrations of the pastor, have rendered it useless.

In order to secure more prompt and ready communication of the Missionaries with the Committee, the instructions to them were, in the early part of the year, reviewed and amended. The Committee have acted upon the principle that, in order to make a wise and judicious distribution of the moneys entrusted to them, among the recipients extended over so great a field, they must be kept informed at all times where the Missionaries are and what they are doing. Without such information they could make no equitable disposal of the Missionary funds. In general, this information, in all its items, has been promptly and cheerfully rendered.

The appointment of the preacher before the Board, at the meeting during the session of the General Convention this year, devolving upon this Committee by the regulations of the Board, they have appointed the Rt. Rev. Dr. Otey, Bishop of Tennessee, the preacher, and the Rt. Rev. Dr. Kemper, Missionary Bishop for Indiana and Missouri, his substitute. Bishop Otey has kindly consented to officiate. The Committee have not yet heard from Bishop Kemper on the subject.

In concluding this summary of their acts, the Committee have pleasure in recording, that, in the month of March, they united with their brethren of the Foreign Committee, in sending forth a joint statement and appeal relative to the Missions of the Church. This and other concurrent acts have afforded pleasing opportunities for the display of those respectful and brotherly feelings, which the two Committees entertain towards each other.

ACTS OF THE SECRETARY AND GENERAL AGENT.

The labors of the Secretary and General Agent have been devoted to the duties of the Missionary office in New-York more exclusively than in the two former years. The increasing correspondence of the Committee, the personal attention to be given to the details of their business, and the management of the Domestic Department of the Spirit of Missions, seemed to make it necessary that this officer should be more stationary than at first. He, therefore, submitted a plan, early in the year, (and has since acted upon it,) by which he has been enabled to be the chief part of his time at the post of duty in the city of New-York, and yet direct considerable attention to the increase of the pecuniary means of the Department. He has thus, in pursuance of that plan, besides officiating and making collections in the city, taken several journeys, and visited a large number of churches, for the purpose of giving information respecting this Department of Missionary labor, of exciting a greater interest in the work, and of increasing the amount of funds. Many of these journeys have been so arranged as to require his absence from the Missionary Rooms but one or two days at a time; a few of them one or two weeks; and one, four weeks. He has thus presented the subject of our Missionary operations in the states or dioceses of Massachusetts, Rhode-Island, Connecticut, New-York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, and Kentucky, to 85 parishes; and collected, in various ways, about $6,000. In doing so, he has officiated 39 Sundays of the year, and has travelled 5,500 miles; and the whole time of his absence from New-York has been about three months. Through the mercy of his heavenly Father, he has been exempt from sickness, and protected in his journeys; and has thus been able to give his whole time and attention to the duties required of him.

The Committee pass to a general view of their operations.

I. INDIAN MISSIONS.

Mission School, Green Bay, W. T.

The Rev. D. E. Brown, Superintendent; Mrs. Brown, Miss Senah Crawford, Miss Susan Crawford, Mr. E. Sherwood, Assistants.

The number of pupils in this school is, at present, thirty-two. The religious character of some of them is such as to cheer the hearts of the friends of Missions. Two of these Indian youths, at the request of the superintendent, were confirmed by the Bishop of Michigan, when he was in Wisconsin last year. These were Louisa Powell and Mary Fletcher. Their conduct has been such as becomes the profession then made, and the Committee look forward, in humble confidence, to the period when God will render them useful to their race, in a different sphere of duty. Another of the pupils, Joanna Blanchard, has also given interesting proofs of early piety, calling forth the special notice of the Superintendent.

The Committee, in their last report, presented the reasons which influenced them in determining upon a reduction of this establishment, with a view to its early discontinuance. However painful it may be, to be compelled, by circumstances over which they have no control, to relinquish an enterprise that has so deeply engaged the attention, enlisted the sympathies, and called forth the prayers and the benefactions of the Church—it would, in the opinion of the Committee, be unwise to continue it longer than present engagements render necessary. They have therefore, instructed the Secretary and General Agent to proceed to Green Bay, soon after the adjournment of the Board, and take such steps, under advisement of the Committee, as may be necessary to hasten the close of the establishment. In this duty one of the lay members of the Committee is associated with him, in equal powers, who will act if he can make it convenient to be at Green Bay at the same time.

Anticipating for two years past the necessity of the measures here reported, the Committee have desired to provide for the disposal of the property of the Institution, in such a manner as to promote the general interests of the Church. They have, accordingly, encouraged the inhabitants of Green Bay to procure the charter of a literary institution (lately granted) to be located in that place; under the expectation that a sale or transfer of the buildings, and of the right which the Church has in the lands there occupied, could be made to the new Institution, in such a manner as would be consistent with an equitable regard to the origin of the property, and, at the same time advance the cause of Missions in the Church.*

The Committee desire not to be understood as casting any reflection upon the wisdom of those who projected and established the school at Green Bay. When that spot was sought, fifteen years ago, as a suitable place on which to set up the light of Gospel truth, and thence diffuse its rays among the heathen tribes around, none could have anticipated what has since transpired. The institution is indeed no longer, to the Indians of the North-West, what it was intended to be, and, in execution of the benevolent design of its origin, it must be made to follow them in their wanderings.

The Committee desire to bear their testimony to the faithfulness, with which the institution has been managed by its present as well as former superintendent.

ONEIDAS—DUCK CREEK, W. T.

The Rev. Solomon Davis, Missionary. Mrs. Davis, Mr. S. B. Sherwood, Miss S. A. Williams, Assistants.

* A full statement of all the proceedings of the Committee, on this subject, with copies of all official correspondence in relation to it, was appended to the Report, for the satisfaction of the Board. This statement, on account of its length, and because it is not a matter of general interest, is omitted in the publication.

The Mission among this tribe is in a highly prosperous condition. The question which has long agitated them, and retarded in some degree the efforts of the Missionary, has been settled by the solemn decision of the Government, permitting them to remain on the lands which have now become endeared to them as their homes. In the last Report, the Board were informed of the liberal grants of money, made by the chiefs to establish and sustain the ministrations of the Gospel among them. The ability to make these grants was derived from the sale of lands, which they held in common with the Six Nations of New-York. But the treaty with the Six Nations, by which the sale was made, did not receive the ratification of the Senate of the United States; and the Oneidas were, for several months, under much uneasiness. The Missionary and a delegation of their chiefs visited the Committee, and appealed to them for aid and advice. Their case justly excited much interest. A lay-member of the Committee was appointed to proceed with them to Washington, and aid them in their endeavors to procure, from the General Government, a recognition of their rights, and a pledge of future security. All which they asked has been granted by Government. Their homes are not to be disturbed—they are encouraged to anticipate that the full rights of citizenship will, in a few years, be conferred upon them. They are enabled to carry out more fully, their designs for securing the permanent privileges of the Gospel among them. Of moneys, received for some of their lands, four thousand dollars will be expended in the erection of a church and parsonage.

Desirous of affording, to these people, readier means of advancement in education and civilization, the Committee have recently appointed a female teacher, who will devote her time exclusively to the girls of the tribe. As a teacher for the boys was provided last year, there will now be two schools, under the superintendence of the Missionary, the expenses of which are to be partly defrayed by the chiefs.

The Committee have especial cause of thankfulness to God in the spiritual condition of these people. They number 600 souls, 450 of whom are under the immediate care of the Missionary; and, of these, eighty are communicants, who adorn their profession by a consistent life.

WESTERN INDIANS; NEOSHO, OR INDIAN TERRITORY.

The field of Missionary operations, presented in the new territory west of the states of Missouri and Arkansas, has recently engaged much of the Committee's attention. Within a district of 200 miles by 600 in extent, our General Government is congregating the remnants of 28 tribes, in number about 130,000; to whom it undertakes to secure the exclusive possession of the country, to give to it, under suitable checks, a representative government derived from the tribes, to establish civil institutions, and aid in benevolent efforts for the civilization and moral improvement of the race. In the prospect that these people will abide in their new country, it is evident that facilities are afforded which this church ought early to embrace, for preaching the Saviour to them.

Besides the general obligation, there is also a peculiar one arising from the condition of one of the tribes. A band of Senecas and Shawnees, in number about 500, subsisting upon the cultivation of the soil, dwelling in neat hewn log cabins, having mechanics and artisans of their own nation, and thus exhibiting many proofs of advancement in civilization, are found there who have our own Liturgy and a portion of the New-Testament, in their native tongue, and bear the name of Episcopalians. Seventy years since, when they dwelt in the valley of the Mohawk, Christ, the Saviour, was first preached to them, by Missionaries of the Venerable Society (in the Church of England) for Propagating the Gospel in Foreign Parts. The Scriptures and the Liturgy, with which they were furnished, have been cherished in their wanderings. Until recently, they have regularly assembled for divine worship, in which one of their chiefs officiated as lay-reader; there are fifty who call themselves members of the Episcopal Church.

As soon as these facts became known to the Committee, they communicated them to Bishop Kemper, and requested him, if possible, to visit the Senecas the present year.

They have also appointed a clergyman, of peculiar fitness for the office, to reside temporarily as Missionary and Chaplain at Fort Leavenworth, and thus gather information and prepare the way for undertaking a Mission in the territory; and have communicated to Government their willingness to co-operate with it, in benevolent efforts to improve the condition of the Indians, there collected. The clergyman alluded to, has not yet decided upon accepting the appointment. In the mean time, the Committee learn from Bishop Kemper, that, by a happy coincidence, he has been pursuing the same inquiries, and was about to recommend the measures which the Committee have adopted. He regards Fort Leavenworth as the point from which our Missionary operations for the territory should emanate. The Military Commandant has assured him that every facility, in his power, shall be given in accomplishing so benevolent a purpose. The Bishop himself will visit the territory at the earliest period, and will accompany and locate the Missionaries who may be appointed.

II. NORTHERN MISSIONS.

III. SOUTHERN MISSIONS.

[For want of room we are compelled to omit all under these heads, except the following paragraphs at the close.

Most of the information laid before the Board, in this part of the Report, has already been given to our readers, in the correspondence of the Missionaries.]

Were the Committee to call the attention of the Board to the peculiar claims of the South-West upon the Church, for early Missionary exertion, they would here reiterate and reaffirm all the strong language of their two former Reports on this subject. They cannot, indeed, dwell upon the spiritual condition of all that country, without the most powerful emotions. God in his mercy grant, that the hearts of many laborers may be turned towards this field, and that its waste places may be cultivated!

The Committee have now passed in review before the Board, a sketch of the ground they have occupied, and of the Missionary labor which has been expended upon it. Some items of statistical information have been thrown into a table, submitted to the Board with the Report.* From this table it will be seen, that the number of communicants reported at 44 stations is 790; of whom 287, at 35 stations, have been added during the year; that the number of baptisms at 41 stations has been 358; and of confirmations at 17 stations 170. Sunday schools are reported at 26 stations; and the number of children in 20 schools is 667. The religious education of the young lambs of the flock, as an important part of every effort to establish congregations of christian people, is not, the Committee are happy to believe, neglected by the Domestic Missionary.

RETROSPECT OF THE LAST THREE YEARS.

It may be proper, before leaving this general view of the past, to extend the observation over the whole period, which has elapsed since the organization of the Committee.

At that time the Department had, in 10 states and territories, 39 stations and 26 Missionaries. The Committee have since adopted 84 stations, in 17 states and territories; and have appointed 77 Missionaries, making the whole number under appointment, since the last General Convention, 103. Of these, 45 have resigned, because their parishes have become unable to support them, or for some other reason; or have retired from the field; or, as in two or three cases, have declined the appointment. The whole number of stations, then, and since, recognised as such, being 123, of these 24 have no longer any connexion with the Committee. Of this latter number, 16 have become able to sustain the ministrations of the Gospel, without aid from abroad; and the remaining 8 have either been taken under the local Missionary authorities, or relinquished for the present. Also, of the places thus aided by the Committee, 17 have this year contributed to the funds for Domestic, and 5 to the funds for Foreign Missions. A more particular statement on this whole subject is appended.* In no spirit of boasting, but in humble thankfulness to God, that he has condescended to use them as his instruments in this blessed work, do the Committee allude, at all, to these results of the past. That much and lasting good has been done, is plain to every eye. For this, in the fulness of their hearts, they say, "not unto us, O Lord, not unto us; but unto thy name, give glory, for thy mercy, and for thy truth's sake."

SPIRIT OF MISSIONS.

This Missionary paper of the Board, conducted by the Secretaries, under the direction of the Committees, has been a useful and indispensable instrument, in carrying forward the Missionary work to these beneficent results. The Committee feel, and desire that the Board, and the whole Church should feel, the importance of circulating this paper in every parish, and placing it in the hands of every member of the Church. It is of very great value, as a means of exciting and keeping alive a Missionary spirit. They are happy to state that, should the dues, for the present year, be punctually paid, it is not likely, hereafter, to be a tax upon the Missionary funds.

FUTURE LABORS.

The limit, to which the Church has already carried her Domestic Missions, affords no index of the extent of this field. On this subject it is so usual to speak in general and indefinite terms, that the Committee think they may be pardoned, if they occupy the attention of the Board, by descending, a moment, into particulars.

The Committee take the estimates of the population, now, and at different periods, for the last fifty years; and assuming that this population will be subject to the same laws, for the next few years, they estimate, that our own country will, in the year 1860, (only twenty-two years hence,) contain no less than 32,000,000 of inhabitants. This is no chimerical, random statement. It results from admitted premises. Now, there will exist an imperative obligation to provide, that these thirty-two millions shall be supplied with the ministrations of the living teacher, and that the privileges and ordinances of the Gospel be made accessible to all. Let it be supposed, however, that the present effort of this Church should be, to provide, that one-fifth of the population may be supplied, by it, with pastoral supervision and teaching. Then, allowing that one man can take the oversight of 1,000 souls, the number of clergymen of this Church, which will be needed twenty-two years hence, is 6,400. Indeed, for this partial supply—that is, for providing that there shall be enough ministers of this Church for one fifth of our own countrymen, in the proportion of one to a thousand—there ought to be, at this hour, in these ranks, 3,300, instead of 1,000 clergymen.

Next, take the case of that portion of the country, to which the labors of the Domestic Committee are more especially, at this time, directed—the valley of the Mississippi. Its population is now nearly 7,000,000; and to provide for their pastoral care, partially, in the proportion above mentioned, 1,400 clergymen of this Church are, at present, needed. But the actual number, instead of being 1,400, is only 130. The data, on which to estimate the population of the valley of the Mississippi, at a given future period, are not so certain and fixed, as in reference to the whole country. But the Committee, it is probable, rather fall short of, than exceed, the true number, in estimating the population of that region, in 1860, at 18,000,000. For the partial supply of this number, as above supposed, there should, at that time, be 3,600 pastors, where now this Church has 130. There is still an important consideration overlooked in this estimate. In the sparseness of population in the West and South-West, owing to the extent of country over which the people are spread, no one man can, ordinarily, minister, as the faithful shepherd of so many as one thousand souls. Often, he will toil for years, without having, under his direct pastoral influence, one half of that number. If, therefore, this element be brought into the calculation, the result will show, that nearly twice as large a number of clergymen is needed, as is here stated.

And WHEN are they needed? Surely, while society is just emerging from its original elements, and the principles of the social compact are assuming an abiding form. This is emphatically the time to labor, that the Gospel may be diffused throughout this land—that the spirit of Christianity may extend itself through all the ramifications of society, and its mild and gentle sway be felt; its saving power be known.

It is by such details as the foregoing, that the magnitude of that work may be, in some degree, conceived, which lies at our doors, and invokes the energies of this Church to its performance while the day lasts. Our brethren, all around us, are passing away into eternity, without the knowledge of Christ. Religious errors of the most alarming kind are rife in the land. Infidelity, with a bold front, opposes itself to the progress of Divine Truth, and sets at defiance the Word and the power of God!

It thus becomes a serious inquiry with every member of the Church, and especially with her constituted Missionary representatives, how shall this immense work be carried on? What measure of energy will the Church bring to it? What portion of her means will she devote to it? To what extent shall daily, fervent, faithful, effectual prayer be offered by all her children, that God would bless and sanctify the efforts, now in progress, for the complete strengthening and establishing of his kingdom in this nation? What shall be done to encourage and animate those who shall look to the Christian ministry, and desire to enter its ranks? How shall these ranks be supplied, in any degree, in proportion to the need of the men? From a tabular statement of the number of the clergy at different periods, hereto appended,* it appears, that their increase, since the establishment of our General and Diocesan Theological Seminaries, has been in a greater ratio, than that of the population of the country. Still, unless these avenues to the Christian ministry are better filled—unless the pious young men of the Church, in far greater numbers, shall give themselves to this work, and resolve to live and suffer for Christ and the souls of their fellow men, our land can never be half supplied with Christian pastors.

The immediate duties of the Committee will lead them to seek for suitable men to fill, at least, a few of the many places of more pressing emergency. They hope that the Spirit of God will so move the hearts of those now in the ministry, or about to receive holy orders, that, at least, thirty additional laborers may enter the Domestic field, the coming Missionary year; and that there will be no lack in sustaining the work.

MEANS AND MEASURES.

The chief reliance of the Committee, is, under God, upon the parochial clergy, for the means necessary to carry forward this work. The love of Christ constrains them; they are agents for Jesus' sake. Official and personal accountability calls upon them to lead the people of their cure to a right judgment and to right action, on this important practical duty. The Committee are happy to state that the joint circular, addressed to the parochial clergy in March last, appears to have been well received, and to be producing a good effect. The replies which have been made to it, give encouragement to hope that the number of parishes, aiding the Missionary enterprise, will be greater, the coming year, than heretofore. Appended to this report is a list* of all those parishes which have aided the Domestic Committee during the year now closed. There is also annexed to this report, a table, showing the sources from which the Missionary funds, in both Departments, have been derived for the last six years. By inspecting these documents, it will be seen that, although not much more than one third of the parishes (if the whole number be, as the Committee suppose, nearly 900) have aided either branch of this general institution of the Church, there has been a gradual increase, from year to year, in the number contributing. These numbers stand, in successive years, as follows:

The year ending June 15, 1833,	145
“ “ 1834,	205
“ “ 1835,	200
“ “ 1836,	270
“ “ 1837,	330
“ “ 1838,	365

The gross receipts, in the several years, will be found to be as follows:

The year ending June 15, 1833,	$19,962 59
“ “ 1834,	23,620 62
“ “ 1835,	25,528 33
“ “ 1836,	54,879 81†
“ “ 1837,	50,483 74‡
“ “ 1838,	51,448 38

* Published with the Proceedings of the Board.

† In this is included $6,500 from societies not of this Church.

‡ In this is included $2,500 from the same institutions.

According to these statements, the income for the three years, ending June 15, 1835, was $69,111 54; and for the three years, ending June 15, 1838, $156,411 93; or, adding $10,000, received by the Domestic Committee, the interest of which only is available, (there being included in the tabular statements $9,000, placed at the disposal of the Foreign Committee, by societies not of this Church,) the gross amount of receipts for the last three years is $166,411 93.

The period which elapsed between the General Convention of 1832 and that of 1835, was two years and ten months. The gross receipts for that time, as reported, amounted to $72,717 13. The interval which has now elapsed, since the General Convention of 1835, is, also, two years and ten months. In this time, the receipts, including the above mentioned $10,000, and, also, the above mentioned $9,000, have been $162,893 56.*

The beneficial working of the present organization is thus seen. The Missionary treasury has more than doubled. The sphere of Missionary operations, has been enlarged more than two fold. Pastors, one after another, are leading their people to the work; and no one, who has put his hand to the plough, will look back. The simultaneous and universal adoption of the existing organization, could not have been reasonably expected. Its wisdom and fitness have commended it to the reflection and calm judgment of the Church. But its entire and full adoption will, necessarily, be the work of time. Abundant evidence of its practical efficiency is afforded, in the statistical information here submitted to the Board.

In looking forward to the labors of the coming year, the Committee have to express the hope, that no single parish, which has aided them, the last year, will diminish aught of its contributions—on the other hand, that, with the reviving prospects of the country, there will, in each case, be a great increase—and very many who have yet taken no part in this work, will, for the love of Christ, and the good of souls, no longer be inactive.

* The Amount received by the late Treasurer, from August 19 to November 25, 1835, as reported to the Board of Missions in June, 1836, is	$5,595 03
The Amount reported to the Board by the Domestic Treasurer, in June, 1836, 1837 and 1838, is	66,380 28
The Amount reported to the Board by the Foreign Treasurer, in June, 1836, 1837 and 1838, (the $9,000 mentioned above being a part,) is	80,255 05

The Committee ask that $40,000 may be raised for Domestic Missions the next year. The expenses, for the two years past, have been greater than the receipts. The amount, now at the disposal of the Committee, is nearly all needed to discharge the obligations of the 1st of July. It is only, then, by largely increasing the income of the Department, that the Church can hope to secure an additional number of effective Missionaries, for the extensive field now white unto the harvest. Nor is it difficult to accomplish what is here asked. Let the 300 parishes which have this year together contributed $26,500 to the Domestic treasury, do the same the next, increasing that sum as God is now giving them ability; let the many, who have ability, but have not used it, in the advancement of Domestic Missions, now act, and the object will be accomplished. The corps of Domestic Missionaries will be greatly increased.

ABSTRACT OF THE THIRD ANNUAL REPORT OF THE FOREIGN COMMITTEE.

FUNDS.

The year ending on the 31st May has brought into the Treasury $27,193 98, which is $1,182 19 more than the receipts of the previous year. The receipts have been from the several dioceses, as compared with the previous year, thus :

EXPENDITURES.

These amount to $32,916 40, and have exceeded the receipts by $5,722 42. The balance on the 1st of June last year has therefore been reduced to $11,059 81, the amount now in hand. It should not, however, be forgotten that in two years the expenditure has exceeded the income about $10,000, and, without increased means, the Missions must eventually suffer.

By the Treasurer's account it will be seen that there have been paid or remitted during the year, for the Greek Mission, Athens, $8,206 60, Syra, $2,937 22, Crete, $2,591 89; for that to Persia, $1,777 78; to China, $3,937 45; W. Africa, $4,355 55; Bibles and Tracts, $3,513 69; Exch. $1,593 64; General Expenses, $4,002 58.

MISSIONS.

Greek Mission.

As the influence of this Mission is extending even beyond Greece, and more than half the Missionary appropriations are there expended, the Committee are called upon for an expression of the general views, under which they have acted.

They presume that the Board do not regard this branch of their operations as wholly and directly Missionary in the ordinary sense of the word. But as education at these stations includes the most thorough Christian instruction, it must be regarded as within the province of Missions. While it would be far short of our duty to limit the efforts of the Church abroad, to the schools in Greece, it would, in the opinion of your Committee, be equally wrong to withdraw the fostering hand from so efficient a means of reviving pure, evangelical religion. The schools contain 1089 pupils—taught the Gospel in simplicity, and many preparing to become, in their turn, teachers. To attempt other means than those in use might be unjustifiable, and yet to abandon these, would be to turn away from an open door, unthankful for the blessings vouchsafed, and to abandon the only Mission as yet productive of much visible good. Far then from viewing the Greek Mission as merely upholding a system of common schools, they deem it preparatory to a purer faith and practice among the people. This cannot be fully appreciated by comparing it with a school system in a country, where the institutions of religion are also in distinct and healthy exercise. The Committee therefore are prepared to extend ample support to the Greek Mission, in the hope that each station shall be a powerful means of awakening an interest in Christian education, and leading the Greeks themselves to engage in the work, standing forth at the same time a faithful model for their future institutions.

It becomes then a question, whether it should be sought rapidly to extend the number of Missionary stations within the Greek Church. On the one hand, the desire among the people is unequivocally and strongly expressed, and the success hitherto attending the Mission schools has afforded every encouragement to proceed. But without attempting the philanthropic design of educating the entire youth of Greece, (never contemplated as the work of this Mission,) certain central points may be wisely and efficiently sustained. These, so far from awakening a jealousy of foreign interference, will rather, from their limited character, lead to self effort. In the language of one of your Missionaries, it is of the utmost importance "to make the Greeks the agents of their own renovation." While, then, your Committee are desirous that several other stations may be gradually established within these borders, they are not so desirous rapidly to multiply them, or inordinately to enlarge any one station. They would rather set up lights in Greece, from which the whole land may hereafter kindle its own pure flames.

ATHENS.

December, 1830.

Rev. J. H. Hill, Mrs. F. M. Hill, Miss E. Mulligan, Miss F. Mulligan, Miss M. B. Baldwin, five male Greek teachers, eight female Greek teachers.

The labors of the Missionaries have been prosecuted in the schools at this station with uninterrupted success. The several departments embrace a list of 630 scholars. The Mission family alone comprises under one roof forty souls.

"We have," says Mr. Hill, "lived down all opposition. No one even dreams of opposing us. Even our enemies are at peace with us. Our schools in all the departments are as flourishing as they were during the past year. They cannot increase, for we have no accommodation for more. We have been under the necessity of refusing admission to more than one hundred, from the government schools during the past three weeks." In speaking of "the remarkable interest which the domestic institution of the Mission had excited over the country, beyond the borders of Greece," Mr. H. says, "applications are coming in from Constantinople, Moldavia, Asia Minor, &c., for us to take under our care the daughters of rich Greeks, and educate them as we think best. It is perfectly astonishing what an immense influence it gives us to have opened such a school.

"Under our roof the Gospel is daily read and taught and preached—the services of the Church are exhibited in their beautiful order, and not without making an impression on those engaging in them.

"Every Sunday afternoon, I have a congregation of about twenty, which is larger than that attending on the English service in the morning. At the afternoon service, (in Greek,) I explain to my attentive little congregation, a portion of the New Testament in course.

"When we look around and see what great things the Lord hath done for us, during the six years of active labor we have just completed, we cannot be too thankful. Nothing can exceed the anxiety of parents to place their children under our care. It has been difficult for us to get rid of the importunity with which places have been sought; and it seemed to us hard to decline using the means which Providence appears to us to have set on foot for effecting a most extensive good, gaining a mighty influence, and to be a preparatory step to a great spiritual reform."

The annual examination on the Greek Christmas is always an occasion of great interest to the parents and friends of the Mission. Speaking of the last occasion, Mr. H. observes, that, "by his own particular request, the Dean of the Faculty of Theology in the University of Otho, addressed the auditors in a truly pious and spiritual manner. 300 copies of portions of the Scriptures were distributed as premiums. The word of God is our weapon; with regard to it we never disguise our sentiments, and we maintain before kings and princes, before gainsayers and lukewarm Christians, that it is the only means of man's moral and spiritual improvement. We feel and know that this powerful instrument, while it produces the most desirable of all changes upon the thoughts and intents of the heart, is equally efficient in enlightening the mind in regard to externals, upon which, in this country at least, too much of religion rests. We have already seen enough to strengthen our faith, and we believe the day is not far distant, when there will be an universal breaking up of the darkness that still exists, and that God will be worshipped in sincerity and truth, even as he is in our own pure Church. Could we but make the Church see, as they who are on the spot see the immense field that lies open before us, a Missionary College might now be established, the effect of which would be felt in a few years from one end of the land to the other."

The Committee attach much importance to the department where a charge is made for tuition. Commenced under the experience attained at Athens, its usefulness may be indefinitely extended, free from the difficulties attendant upon any injudicious or premature introduction of such a plan, and the personal interest of the Greeks may thus be secured for a school, supported in part by themselves. This department, though recently commenced, numbers 60 pupils, and the receipts from it, as well as from Government for its beneficiaries, are expended in the Mission.

Two who have been prepared as teachers, are reported to have left the school during the year; one to aid in establishing the Mission school at Crete, the other to take charge of the government school at the Piræus.

The expenses of the Athens Mission are still beyond the estimated amount. The Committee have been unwilling to embarrass its operations, and have therefore paid several drafts on the Treasurer which were unexpected. They believe that no more payments of this kind will be needed.

NOTE. In compliance with a Resolution of the last meeting of the Board, the Committee have obtained from the Rev. Mr. Hill the following information relative to the premises occupied by the Mission.

1. The residence of the Mission family. This does not belong to the Mission, and nothing has been expended upon it from the Missionary funds. The annual rent paid is $800.

2. The school premises. The lot belongs to the D. & F. M. Society, subject to an annual ground rent of $50. This, Mr. Hill thinks, might be bought up for about $600. The building thereon has been erected at the expense of the Mission, costing to the present time about $7,700.

3. A lot costing in 1831, $125. This was taken by Government for the new palace in 1836, and Mr. Hill expects soon to adjust and receive the value.

2. SYRA.

October, 1832.

Rev. J. J. Robertson, D. D., Mrs. J. Robertson, Mr. C. R. Lincoln, printer, Mrs. Lincoln, one male, three female Greek teachers.

This station comprises two departments, the Press and the School.

The Press. Under the immediate charge of Mr. Lincoln, the press has, during the year, continued in active operation. 1,711,400 pages have been issued, principally in bound volumes. The interruptions during 1836 having prevented the employment of the press, beyond the temporary aid given to Mr. Leeves, no return has been made for that year.

The School, which was not commenced at this station until 1835 had at the beginning of 1837 about thirty scholars; the number has now increased to 220, all females, and, says Dr. Robertson, "we can hardly exclude others pressing for entrance."

On mature deliberation, full provision has been made for the continuance of the press through the present year, with the distinct understanding that its operations are then to close at Syra, and your Committee are not prepared to recommend the renewal elsewhere. Acting under the Resolution of the Board at their last meeting, and for reasons then assigned, the Committee, since arriving at this conclusion, have communicated freely with Dr. Robertson, in preparation for the expected change.

The question has occurred, whether efforts should be made to enlarge the school and render it permanent at Syra, or the removal of the Mission be effected before this department so recently commenced, has become established in its present location.

It will be remembered that a school was not originally any part of the Syra Mission. The press demanded facilities for communication with other parts of the Mediterranean, and this island offered such facilities. One consideration, your Committee frankly confess, leads them now to favor the removal. The large school of the Church Missionary Society, one of the earliest Mission schools in Greece, and to which our Mission at Athens was indebted for its first teachers, has numbered from 400 to 600 pupils, having now nearly the latter number. Recently another Missionary has joined Mr. Hildner, and other teachers are being added from England. At the same time it is understood that the labors of that Society, in Greece proper, are to be much concentrated at Syra.

While the Committee cannot suppose that pre-occupancy by one Missionary Society, should of itself prevent the labors of another, they grant that circumstances may often render the yielding to such pre-occupancy expedient and just. Such circumstances they believe exist in the present instance, and Dr. Robertson has been requested to furnish all the information in his power, in reference to the question of a possible removal. He has by an undesigned coincidence visited Constantinople for this purpose, and has strongly recommended that two Missionaries be sent at once to the 200,000 Greeks of that city destitute of any Mission addressed specially to them. Difficulties, he states, may for some time attend such an effort. Experience will be required. It may be inexpedient to attempt there the press, or even a school, but still he urges the measure without delay, and states subsequently, that if the Mission is to be transferred to another spot, he knows of no other to which he could well remove his family.

The expectation that domestic arrangements consequent upon the decease of his father, may cause an early visit of Dr. Robertson to this country, has prevented as yet any further steps in regard to this station.

3. CRETE.

March, 1837.

Rev. George Benton, Mrs. C. Benton, one male Greek teacher, one female Greek teacher.

This island, being under the government of the Pacha of Egypt, and therefore less exposed to the opposition made to Missions elsewhere in the dominions of the Sultan, seemed open to the operations of our Church, and Mr. Benton reached Canée the 12th of March, 1837.

The desire among the people generally for the establishment of the school was strongly expressed. No instruction in modern Greek was permitted, and in a population comprising 1,500 children of an age to attend school, there were to be found only a small school for ancient Greek, (relinquished when the Mission commenced,) and two or three small schools for the partial instruction of a few Turkish and Jewish children. Not an entire copy of the Old and New Testaments was to be found at Canée. The portions of the Bible used in the lessons of the Greek Church being separately printed, were only to be obtained at a high price.

The Greek consul resident at Crete, had thus written to Mr. Hill, "I am bound to express to you my great satisfaction at learning the noble and philanthropic design you have communicated to me. This place feels every day the want of such an establishment. The rumor of it spreads through the town, and has filled with joy the hearts of all the Greek merchants."

"When we walk the streets," says Mr. Benton on arriving at Crete, "we hear the children whisper, 'the new teacher.' Many of the first Greek families have called to bid us welcome:—the Bishop of Canée quietly heard our object, what we could teach, &c., and then, (with much emphasis,) said, 'you are welcome.'"

Opposition was subsequently made by the ecclesiastical authorities of Crete, under the patriarchal edict, but the desires of the people prevailed, and the assent of government being obtained, the school was opened on the 11th of September, when 50 pupils were at once collected. That number has in seven months increased to 239, "all of whom," says Mr. B., "are instructed under our daily and almost hourly supervision, in our own house."

"It is impossible for me," continues your Missionary, "to describe the trouble, anxieties and cares I have experienced. I have realized deeply the responsibility that rested upon me, and fervently have I prayed the Great Head of the Church, so to order all my conduct that all things might redound to his glory. I had surveyed this portion of his vineyard, and seen the intellectual, moral, and religious destitution of the people."

In the several departments of the school are now the children of Turks, Jews, Greek residents, and Greek subjects or Rayahs. The latter class having been more immediately forbidden, were but sparingly admitted, and only on the most pressing solicitation of the parents. "I have taken into school," observes Mr. B., "the son of a Greek priest, who is a Rayah, because I could not withstand his entreaties." All collision with the authorities of the Greek Church has been avoided, and some of the most opposed have become avowedly favorable.

The Missionary holds service every Sunday morning in his own house to a small congregation.

Mr. B. recently writes, "as our house is now very much crowded, I am only waiting to find a convenient place for the boys in order to make a division of them, and devote the whole of our spare room to the infant and female departments. We shall then be able to extend the benefits of the Mission to double our present number. In the spring I intend to open a distinct infant school, if providence permit."

At the expiration of four months, a public examination was held on the Greek Christmas. "The room, hall and doors were crowded with the parents of the children and others, who came to see the novel sight, for it was the first time that ever such an exercise was witnessed in Canée."

"The fears of proselytism raised soon after our arrival have entirely subsided, and the effects of our labors may already be seen in the more orderly conduct of the children, and in their more regular attendance on all the duties of the school and at church. They receive regular instruction in the divine truths of the Gospel, and have explained to them the practical and spiritual bearing of the lessons, which are read every Sunday in the Greek Church. Many of the scholars have made much progress in the acquisition of religious knowledge."

The Committee record with much pleasure, the essential aid, afforded in the establishment of this Mission, by D. Bonnal, Esq., American Consul for Crete, who from the first, by his friendly advice and influence, has contributed largely to the removal of every obstacle, and has expressed a Christian interest in the success of the Mission.

The Committee have furnished Mr. Benton with copies of the Scriptures in Hebrew, Greek and French, partly on account of a previous grant of the American Bible Society, for Greece. Twenty-five copies of the Common Prayer, in French, have also been granted by the New-York Bible and Common Prayer Book Society.

PERSIA.

August, 1836.

Rev. Horatio Southgate, Exploring Missionary to the Mohammedans of Persia, &c.

Mr. Southgate, after ten months residence in Constantinople, left it on the 1st June of the last year for Trebizond and Persia. His course led him through Oormiah, where he found the Mission of the American Board to the Nestorians of Persia, the only Protestant Mission it is believed now within the confines of that country.

At Tebriz Mr. S. passed about six weeks, inquiring minutely into the causes which led to the late relinquishment of the German Mission, which had been for several years sustained in Persia. He also obtained information of efforts in behalf of education by the Persians. Here too he enlarged his acquaintance with the language, and pursued his more general inquiries. Proceeding thence to Teheran, four hundred miles south, he found the court and the residence of the English Ambassador. He had here ample opportunities for arriving at conclusions, which led him after a few weeks to alter his original plan, (including the southern cities of Persia,) and to commence his return westerly through Bagdad. These conclusions, and the grounds on which they were founded, together with the other results of his various inquiries, it is Mr. Southgate's design to communicate fully to the Board on his return, and for this he has furnished himself with ample materials. At present he announces the result, as briefly communicated to your Committee, that if the Board should hereafter decide upon engaging in Missions to Persia, the North, especially Teheran, should be the first scene of Missionary effort; and that subsequent inquiries be then prosecuted from that city, as the way may providentially open. A plan for such a commencement was submitted to the English Ambassador, well known for his long and intimate acquaintance with Persia, and met his entire approbation.

Mr. Southgate may be expected in America the ensuing autumn. Expenses, $1,777 78.

CHINA.

Rev. Henry Lockwood, Rev. Wm. J. Boone, M. D., Mrs. S. Boone, one native Chinese teacher.

Mr. Lockwood has steadily pursued his course of preparation. In the Malay he has already prepared and printed a small work, and has overcome much of the difficulty in the acquisition of the Chinese. The little school of thirty pupils has been continued not only for its benefits to the children themselves, but as an invaluable aid to the Missionaries in acquiring the Chinese, colloquially.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Boone reached Batavia the 22d of October last, having sailed from Boston the 8th of July previous.

On a mutual conference it was unanimously decided that the restoration of Mr. Hanson's health called for his immediate return to the United States. Having for many months delayed this measure in the anxious hope of restoration, during which time he was compelled to relinquish all application, the necessity of his return had become apparent, and the Committee fully approve the measure. Painful as it may be to give up a Missionary, where the harvest is so great and the laborers so few, Mr. Hanson requires an entire release from all connection with the Committee; and after so faithful an experiment, it can scarcely be prudent to renew his efforts in that climate.

The Committee record their thanks to Capt. Richardson of the ship Brooklyn, for his kindness in affording to Mr. H. a passage to Cowes free from expense. He reached New-York the 8th of May.

The altered state of the Mission induced Mr. Boone to delay his visiting Singapore for a year, and in the mean time to remain at Batavia with his associate. The Committee accord with the Missionaries in the statement, that nothing will be lost by the utmost deliberation in deciding so important a step as the ultimate location of this Mission; and they confidently look to the guiding providence of God, in due time to direct the way.

When the Church entered upon this Mission, there could have been no intelligent expectation of immediate results of very marked character. The faith which sustained Dr. Morrison for more than a quarter of a century, under far greater discouragements, is still needed. But in accomplishing the entire translation of the Bible and Book of Common Prayer into the language of one third of the inhabitants of the globe, that Missionary found a rich reward. Surely we can patiently await other results, in the simple endeavor to convey to the Chinese the means of grace. The immense interests at stake—the promises of God—the deepening sympathy for the spiritual wants of China so extensively pervading Christendom, still encourage us to be faithful. In acknowledging that when China receives the Christian faith, the world's conversion will be well nigh accomplished—the Christian acknowledges also the vastness of the object, and the difficulties surmountable by him only, to whom all things are possible.

“Man for man,” observes one of your Missionaries, “undoubtedly the salvation of a North American Indian is as precious as that of a China-man, but as a part of the integral mass it appears to me, the conversion of one man in China must operate with ten-fold more power in hastening the great day when this world shall be reclaimed to God.”

The Committee acknowledge the receipt of 100 copies of the Common Prayer for this Mission, a grant from the Bishop White Prayer Book Society, Philadelphia.

WESTERN AFRICA.

Cape Palmas.

March, 1836.

Rev. Thomas S. Savage, M. D., Rev. Lancelot B. Minor, Rev. John Payne, Mrs. A. Payne, Mr. E. S. Byron, Lay Assistant.

Though this Mission was commenced in March, 1836, by the labors of Mr. and Mrs. Thomson, it was not till Christmas day of the same year, that the first Missionary, the Rev. Dr. Savage, reached the station, where he was joined by his associates on the 4th of July following.

Circumstances affecting Mr. Thomson's standing as a religious teacher, led to his removal from the Mission early in the past year, which step was sanctioned by the Committee, on the facts being laid before them by Dr. Savage.

The first object of attention has been the erecting and completing suitable buildings, tending to secure the health and comfort of the Missionaries, and to admit of more enlarged efforts in the education of the native youth. This object, from the great difficulty of procuring labor in an infant colony, is scarcely yet attained, though the Missionaries have from the first resided at the station.

At the close of 1837, Dr. Savage found it necessary to leave C. Palmas, designing to avail himself of an opportunity for pursuing his inquiries along the windward and leeward coasts, and of returning in the same vessel to America.

After a year of labor and anxiety, increased by the accession of his brethren during the first months of their residence, he has suffered from intermittent fever and general prostration of the system. When he first departed for Cape Palmas, it was with the expectation of an early visit to America, it being apparent that correspondence alone, can never satisfactorily settle the principles and arrange the operations of such a Mission. As was anticipated his presence here has become desirable for the benefit of the Mission, and to this motive is now added the restoration to health and strength, preparatory to new efforts.

"I wish," says Dr. Savage, "the true cause of my illness to be well understood. Till my associates arrived, and for more than a month after, my health was good. They found me alone, pressed by numerous duties, and themselves upon my hands the objects of deep anxiety. It is my firm belief, that under different circumstances my health would still have been good. I do not believe this climate to be necessarily fatal to the white man's constitution or health. But that it involves much and often great suffering with a thousand circumstances of severe trial we all cheerfully admit, and even that life for years to come will be shortened by it. Yet it is at the same time no less true, that with a moderate share of prudence we can live here and enjoy good health, (though it cannot be permanently as good as we might expect in our native land,) and above all, labor for years to save from eternal death, hundreds and thousands and millions of our fellow beings." The Committee quote this opinion of the climate as the deliberate conviction of your Missionary, a man of acknowledged medical skill, after a year's residence.

"The interior, in every direction from us," continues Dr. Savage, "is occupied by populous towns containing from 1,000 to 1,500 souls. We should find, it is estimated, (within fifty miles,) not less than 60 to 70,000, and all willing, to say the least, to receive a teacher. The King of Deh-neh, about 45 miles from Cape Palmas, [previously visited by Dr. S.,] continues favorable to the establishment of a school among his people, and has been regularly manifesting his good will by sending me down at different times, little 'dashes,' or presents. He has more than once given me to understand that he fully expects, and is patiently waiting the opening of a school." "Another question put to the King of Rabookah was, 'what will you do to aid us in opening a school among your people?' His reply was, 'I will furnish all the timber, and my people shall do all the labor, if you will find the nails for the house; and I will furnish food, all the same as my people eat, for a teacher.' Here boys were pressed upon us by their parents, but we could only receive a small number, not deeming it desirable at present to increase our school above twenty. One of the stipulations by deed for land purchased at the time of Dr. Hall's agency, was the establishment of schools in the Breley-mah country."

Dr. Savage also visited King Baphro on the Cavally, taking with him several of the pupils, one a son of this king, and among the most intelligent in the school. "This prince," says your Missionary, "would not fail to attract attention by his personal bearing, in any part of the world. Six feet, four inches in height, he has the expression of the conscious superiority of the monarch written on his brow, and I never saw more dignity of person concentrated in a single individual." After witnessing the school exercises of his son, he exclaimed with much emotion, "I live here and die like a fool, but that boy knows something. Yes, the white man live in my heart." He has shown the sincerity of his desire for schools by building a school-house in native style, and supporting a teacher, a colored boy from Cape Palmas."

"To reduce this desire to a healthful, practical influence," continues your Missionary, "and convert it into an open door for the entrance of light and true religion, remain within the power of the patient, judicious and devoted Missionary."

"I have made," says Mr. Payne, after six months residence at the Cape, "the first effort to proclaim the Gospel in the interior of a bush town called Wassa, distant about eight miles. The king and the people were very attentive to this first 'God palaver,' and desired that I would visit them often."

Mr. Minor, who suffered more than his companions under the acclimating process, was sufficiently recovered to take charge of the school, on the departure of Dr. S., and until able to prosecute another design of the Mission, that of advancing into the interior. Mr. M., it is remarked by his associates, "has made good progress in the language of the Greybo, and he seems to possess an unusual tact at acquiring their phrases and converting them to a practical purpose."

The establishment of a high school has been from the first an object of much interest with the Committee, and they are desirous of its being commenced at the earliest practicable date. They forbear, however, to hold out any premature encouragement: it must be a work of time. Towards this end, the Rt. Rev. Bishop Meade has deposited the sum of $1,300, on certain conditions, and Edward Colston, Esq., of Virginia, a bond for $420. These sums were principally bequests in the hands of these gentlemen available for such an object.

From the multiplied secular cares at present attendant upon this Mission, the Committee have yielded to the solicitations of the Missionaries, and sent out Mr. E. S. Byron, a young man of piety, and well fitted to act as teacher and lay-assistant of the Mission.

By the arrival of Dr. Savage, the history of this Mission is brought down to the 30th of April. The following facts are among the many encouragements detailed in his journal.

The Missionaries were in good measure of health, and actively pursuing their labors. Mr. Payne conducts service at a native town about two miles from the Mission, every other Sunday. Here it is proposed to build a church. At the Mission also, service is held for the colonists and others in the immediate vicinity. The Sunday School had already numbered 40. In two months, one hundred colonists were expected to be settled around the Mission. The erection of a church and the distinct labors of another Missionary for the colonists, had become exceedingly desirable. Five children of the colonists had been baptized, and one adult. The communion had been administered six times, five persons being admitted to that holy ordinance, one white and four colored.

Measures were to be promptly taken for establishing an interior station at Deh-neh, forty miles distant, to which the Rev. Mr. Minor would proceed. He had already visited the place, and an eligible spot had been given for the site. This spot is represented as elevated, and exceedingly beautiful.

The following extract bears date Easter Sunday, April 15. "Preached to-day to the largest number ever assembled upon our Mission grounds. The rooms were well filled. Subject, Resurrection of Christ. Two were baptized, a mother and child, and the former was admitted to communion. We were joined at the Lord's table by members from the Presbyterian and Methodist societies.

"This occasion was to me one of deep solemnity, and highly affecting. Two years before, the spot upon which we worshipped, was a waste, howling wilderness. Its gloomy forest echoed only to the cry of the wild beast, and the unmeaning yell of the roaming savage. One year later, and I was permitted to celebrate, with four others, the rising of Christ from the dead, and in its connection, the setting up of our light in this heathen land. To-day, an elapse of twelve months more, and I am permitted to celebrate the same holy events—to kneel at the same altar, upon the same spot, with two devoted brethren in the ministry, and the addition of four others to our communion. Twenty native children from our school present, some able to respond in the service, and all under a hallowed influence. These grounds, so recently a wilderness, are now reclaimed by the hand of industry and civilization, and brought beneath a flourishing cultivation, through the labors of once heathen, degraded, but now improving, happy children. O, yes, blessed be God, this spot now beams with the light of Christianity, and is vocal with praise to his holy name!"

PRESENT ORGANIZATION.

In approaching the close of the first triennial term of experiment, your Committee would bear testimony to the present mode of conducting the Missions of our Church. Firmly believing that active operations abroad are among the legitimate fruits of piety in the Church, and as such will abound yet more and more, they have however avoided all efforts which might tend to give undue prominence to such a work in the hearts of either pastor or people. They have thus the greater confidence in the increased attention already given to the subject, as one direct result of the Conventional act of 1835. Your Committee are far from supposing that any ecclesiastical or other organization can of itself affect that which must, under God, flow from a true Missionary spirit, or attaching too much importance to the precise mode in which such a spirit, when existing, will manifest itself; but, with little exception composed of the members appointed in 1835, your Committee would unhesitatingly declare their confidence in the wisdom which formed the present organization. Opportunity for party feeling in the general Missions has been much removed—the advantages of division of labor and of distinct responsibility have been in large measure attained—a fresh impulse has been felt throughout each department, and the confidence of those who as Missionaries have embarked their all in the work, has been materially strengthened. In testifying to the increase of such confidence in the Church at large, your Committee simply appeal to the facts that the Missionaries and Teachers of both departments have in less than three years increased from 48 to 101. The funds reported in the last triennial return, exclusive of items not from the Church, were for 34 months about $66,600 for the two departments. The amount during the same period since, and from the same source, is $143,230 36 or more than double the previous receipts.

When it is considered how long a period is required to induce an extensive interest in the parishes, or even cause a thorough understanding of any general measure of the Church, however excellent in its character, much will be found already attained; and your Committee believe that time only is needed, for pastoral effort to secure that general confidence and co-operation, which frequent changes might endanger or effectually retard, but so essential, under God, to eventual good.

PROSPECTS.

The estimate for the coming year, for merely sustaining the present Missions abroad, without allowing for the least increase of effort, amounts to about $25,000.

Your Committee in conclusion would seek to draw the attention of the Church to the necessity for continual watchfulness as its Missions advance. They feel that much under God depends upon purity of motive, and singleness of aim in seeking the extension of the Gospel by means of our beloved Church. There is danger in the rapidly advancing Missionary spirit, lest it spring from the love for a favorite cause, rather than from the constraining love of Christ and love for souls; there is danger lest a spirit of prayer be wanting, and that of self dependance be engendered; lest impatience result from mistaken views of responsibility, when faith simply calls us to use the means in our power, and commit all events to God. There is danger lest pecuniary efforts occupy that place in the Christian's attention, which should be given to supplicating the Lord of the harvest to send forth laborers into his harvest. Better would it be in view of your Committee, that the Church of our affections should take no part in the great work of preaching Christ to the Gentiles, than pursue its measures for that end with impure motives, under hasty excitement, or without humble faith and fervent prayer. But if guided by that wisdom which is profitable to direct, and in the spirit of Him who commanded his Gospel to be preached to every creature, your Committee doubt not for a moment that blessed results will in some way be experienced from every faithful effort, every believing prayer; and the dew of heavenly benediction shall descend upon a Church whose consistent desire as well as professed prayer is daily, Thy Kingdom Come.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

MISSIONARY MEETING—BOSTON.

On the evening of the 21st June, the Board of Missions adjourned to attend the Missionary Meeting held at St. Paul's church. After the reading of appropriate collects by the presiding Bishop, followed by singing, a Resolution was introduced by the Rt. Rev. Bishop B. T. Onderdonk, declaring the success of our general Missions a cause for devout gratitude, and encouragement for renewed effort. Bishop Onderdonk enlarged especially upon the entire dependence of the Church upon divine grace.

A second Resolution was sustained by Rt. Rev. Bishop Doane, recognising the intimate connection between the promise of Christ to his Church, Lo, I am with you, and the corresponding command, Go, preach the Gospel to every creature.

The Rev. Dr. Tyng then spoke upon the happy result of a Missionary spirit upon the Church itself, as a distinct call, both on the score of duty and interest, to make far greater efforts in the spread of the Gospel.

The Resolution, embracing the foregoing sentiment, was then seconded by the Rev. Dr. Hawks, who more prominently urged the testimony, in favor of Missionary effort, drawn from the personal experience of the Christian.

These services, which were continued to a late hour, received the marked attention of a large audience, and we are convinced that the results will be of the most happy character in that part of our communion. The collection made on the occasion, (equally divided between the two Committees,) amounted to $211 64.

MISSION TO THE INDIAN TERRITORY.

The Domestic Committee will be happy to hold correspondence with any Clergyman, whose mind may be directed to the "Indian Territory," as a field of Missionary labor. (See p. 243.)

* The Secretary and General Agent of the Domestic Committee is absent from the office in New-York, on a visit to Green Bay, W. T., to return about the 20th of August.

The Rev. Dr. Savage arrived at New-York, in the bark Emperor, on the 16th June, expecting to return to Africa in the autumn.

The acknowledgments of the Treasurers are omitted, as this number goes to press nearly two weeks earlier than usual. The Proceedings of the Committees, since the adjournment of the Board, are deferred for want of room.
